

Facing the Heat: Exploring conversations on climate change

Following critical acclaim in Geelong and City of Yarra, this workshop is not to be missed!

As people begin to accept the seriousness and urgency of climate change they often feel the urge to spark conversations with family, friends, colleagues, or even strangers, only to discover it's not always as easy as expected.

Climate conversations are not just about rational scientific debate. They touch on people's identity, values and emotions. Conversations can feel draining or nurturing — the more they're draining, the more we're at risk of dropping out or burning out.

This experiential workshop allows a playful delve into conversations, a reflection on conversational processes and ways for manoeuvring those tricky moments. There will be role plays and group discussions.

When	1.30-3.30pm, Saturday 29th October 2016
Where	Sustainable Activity Centre (next to La Maison Café) Gateway Island, Wodonga
Cost	$10.00
RSVP	By Saturday 22nd October 2016 to watch.albwod@gmail.com or 02 60 59 4185

Facilitators Carol Ride and Ben Nisenbaum are founding members of Psychology for a Safe Climate and co-authors of Let's Speak about Climate Change and Facing the Heat

